travelers" are suposed to be anything travelers' are suposed to be anything but prohibs, yet, it is a fact, that there is an order among them which inculucates total abstinence. We have been told by many that "commercial men have to treat, it is a part of their business." I personally interviewed one on the subject and he assures me that not only is it not necessary, but that the total abstinence men are hold-ing positions, while the one who treats and takes treat is being discharged.

The same man was recently in a group of men and was offered a cigar, "no thank you, I don't smoke." Well, let us go and get a glass of wine or beer? "Thank you, I don't drink." What, a commercial traveler and don't smoke or drink? "Yes, a commercial traveler that neither smokes or drinks, and one that says his prayers every night and can get up and sells more goods than any of you who smoke and drink'
